

Trimix Injections for Erectile Dysfunction

Overview:

Trimix is a penile injection that includes alprostadil, papaverine, and phentolamine. These ingredients work together to dilate blood vessels and improve blood flow to the penis, typically leading to strong and lasting erections in 5-20 minutes.

Trimix is the most powerful treatment for erectile dysfunction (ED). Many men with severe ED have found success with Trimix when other ED medications fail.

Trimix may ship lyophilized, or freeze-dried into a powder to be mixed with bacteriostatic water before use. It may also ship pre-mixed depending on the pharmacy.

Suggested Dosage:

0.05mg to 0.12mg injected into the spongy tissue (corpus spongiosum) at the base of the penis. Trimix patients are typically recommended to start at the lowest dosage.

Trimix Formulations:

Trimix is available in several formulations depending on the needs of the patient.

- Trimix: The original formula, Trimix includes Alprostadil, Papaverine, and Phentolamine.
- Super Trimix: Similar to Trimix but contains Phentolamine at a doubled dosage.
- Bimix: Includes Papaverine and Phentolamine but excludes Alprostadil for those sensitive to it.
- Super Bimix: Offers Phentolamine at twice the dosage of Bimix.
- Quadmix: Consists of Papaverine, Phentolamine Mesylate, Prostaglandin, and Atropine Sulfate.
- Super Quadmix: Contains Phentolamine at twice the dosage found in Quadmix.

For most patients, the original Trimix formula is recommended. However, depending on the severity of the ED and the patient's sensitivity to Alprostadil, an alternative formula may be appropriate.

In Case of Side Effects:

Because Trimix is so powerful, it has a higher incidence of priapism, or a medical emergency where the penis stays erect for more than four hours. It's important to inject the correct dosage and to avoid combining Trimix with any other ED medications, particularly vasodilators like Sildenafil.

Defy Medical offers access to Phenylephrine HCl, which is an injectable that can treat priapism. Many Trimix patients prefer to have Phenylephrine on hand in case of emergency.
